

NEW FROM THE RELIGIOUS STUDIES CENTER

LATTER-DAY SAINTS IN WASHINGTON, DC

PROVO, UTAH, AND SALT LAKE CITY—This volume takes a fresh look at the history, people, and places in Washington, DC, that have affected The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Beginning with Joseph Smith's earliest interactions with the federal government of the United States in the 1830s, the Church's progress has been shaped by leaders and members interacting in Washington. This volume is filled with essays on many topics about the Church's history in the U.S. capital. It also chronicles many of the Saints and statesmen who have worked to bring the Church out of obscurity and onto a national and international stage.

The Church's presence in the District of Columbia spans nearly the entirety of the faith's history. Significant influence exerted on the Church by individuals and agencies associated with the federal government make a study of the Church in Washington, DC, a rich endeavor.

The book is divided into three sections. The first section, "History," examines episodes occurring in or involving Washington, DC. The next section, "People," details prominent individuals affiliated in a variety of ways with the District of Columbia. The final section, "Places," explores prominent sites associated with Latter-day Saints in the Washington area. Latter-day Saints in Washington, DC helps readers appreciate the sometimes complicated, yet cooperative, relationship between the Church and the United States federal government.

Visit <https://rsc.byu.edu/book/latter-day-saints-washington-dc> for more information.

ABOUT THE EDITORS

KENNETH L. ALFORD is a professor of Church history and doctrine. After serving almost thirty years in the U.S. Army (eleven years in the Washington, DC, area), he retired as a colonel in 2008. He earned a BA in political science from Brigham Young University, an MA in international relations from the University of Southern California, a master of computer science from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, and a PhD in computer science from George Mason University.

LLOYD D. NEWELL is an American journalist, announcer, and author, who is the current voice of Music and the Spoken Word. He holds an MA in communications and a PhD in marriage, family, and human development from BYU, where he is a professor of Church history and doctrine and an associated faculty member in the School of Family Life.

ALEXANDER L. BAUGH is a professor and chair of the Department of Church History and Doctrine at Brigham Young University, where he has been a full-time faculty member since 1995. He received a BS from Utah State University and MA and PhD degrees from Brigham Young University. He specializes in researching and writing about the Missouri period of early Church history (1831–39).

DETAILS

Purchase at Deseret Book or online at deseretbook.com

Hardcover $31.99

Pages: 500

Size: 6" x 9"

ISBN: 978-1-9503-0403-5

Published: RSC and Deseret Book, 2021

CONNECT WITH US rsc.byu.edu

MEDIA CONTACT

For more information, please contact

Project Editor: Devan Jensen

Marketing: Brent Nordgren

Social Media: Devan Jensen

801-422-9304, devan_jensen@byu.edu

801-422-3293, brent_nordgren@byu.edu

801-422-9304, devan_jensen@byu.edu

BYU