

*My
Redeemer,
Lives!*

Brigham Young University
Easter Conference

EDITED BY
RICHARD NEITZEL HOLZAPFEL AND KENT P. JACKSON

RELIGIOUS STUDIES CENTER
BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY

Published by the Religious Studies Center, Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah, in cooperation with Deseret Book Company, Salt Lake City
<http://rsc.byu.edu>

© 2011 by Brigham Young University
All rights reserved.

DESERET BOOK is a registered trademark of Deseret Book Company.
Visit us as DeseretBook.com

Any uses of this material beyond those allowed by the exemptions in U.S. copyright law, such as section 107, "Fair Use," and section 108, "Library Copying," require the written permission of the publisher, Religious Studies Center, 167 HGB, Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah 84602. The views expressed herein are the responsibility of the authors and do not necessarily represent the position of Brigham Young University or the Religious Studies Center.

ISBN 978-0-8425-2784-2
Retail US $14.99

Cover painting: Mary and the Resurrected Lord, by Harry Anderson. © 2002 by Intellectual Reserve, Inc. All rights reserved.
Layout and design by Jeff Wade

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION: HOLY FIRE	v
Richard Neitzel Holzapfel and Kent P. Jackson
“IT IS FINISHED”	1
Elder John H. Groberg
WHAT THE ATONING SACRIFICE MEANT FOR JESUS	27
Elder Gerald N. Lund
“TO THEM GAVE HE POWER TO BECOME”	53
Daniel L. Belnap
WHAT WE WORSHIP	69
Robert L. Millet
TO PROCLAIM LIBERTY TO THE CAPTIVES	91
Sandra Rogers
THREE STORIES	123
Charles Swift
INDEX	145

A flash of fire is seen inside the tomb, and the patriarch emerges. From his burning candles, the Holy Fire spreads rapidly to candles in the hands of thousands of worshipers. Thus the fire that comes from the place of Jesus' triumph over darkness spreads light all over the world.

(Courtesy of Kent P. Jackson.)

INTRODUCTION: HOLY FIRE

THROUGH DIFFERENT OBSERVANCES and ceremonies, Christians around the world express their faith that their Redeemer lives. Such beliefs are seen vividly in the Holy Land, where Christians of many varieties live and where many more come as pilgrims to visit locations where the sacred events of Jesus' life took place.

One of the most remarkable and memorable Easter observances is the celebration of the "Miracle of the Holy Fire," which takes place in Jerusalem on Holy Saturday, the day before Easter in the Orthodox Christian calendar. This extraordinary celebration of the Resurrection is observed in Eastern (Orthodox) Christianity but not in Western (Catholic/Protestant) churches. It has been documented for well over a thousand years. It is a unique practice in the world—it takes place only in the Holy City, yet it is loved throughout all of Eastern Christianity and is even broadcast live in some Orthodox countries.

The Greek Orthodox patriarch presides over the ceremony, assisted by bishops of the Armenian and Syriac Orthodox Churches and others. The setting is the Church of the Resurrection, known to Western Christians as the Church of the Holy Sepulcher, the traditional site of Jesus' crucifixion, burial, and resurrection. Inside the church, the patriarch enters alone into the small, dark structure identified as the tomb of Jesus. Multitudes who have crowded inside the church wait, holding unlit candles in their hands. Eventually, a flash of fire is seen inside the tomb, and within a moment, the patriarch emerges, holding a bundle of burning candles.

From his burning candles, the Holy Fire spreads rapidly to candles in the hands of thousands of worshipers inside the great church. From there, the flame spreads outside the building to thousands more along the streets of Jerusalem's Old City. And then the flame is transported to distant lands as the celebration continues well beyond Jesus' tomb. Thus the fire that comes from the place of Jesus' triumph over darkness spreads light all over the world.

Throughout the year, our thoughts are directed toward our Savior. He is "the light of the world." Those who follow him "shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life" (John 8:12). Like the flame that emerges from the empty tomb, Jesus emerged on that Easter morning to bring light to all people in all nations. We rejoice in that light.

The essays published in this book were delivered at annual Brigham Young University Easter Conferences in 2010 and 2011. We thank those who accepted our invitations to share their feelings, insights, and testimonies about the life and ministry of Jesus Christ. We hope that this small volume will add to your testimony that our Redeemer lives and that his saving light continues to illuminate our lives.

Richard Neitzel Holzapfel
Birmingham, Alabama

Kent P. Jackson
Jerusalem

Jesus Christ is our ever-present Friend. He is aware of falling sparrows and failing individuals. He controls the universe and everything in it. The ways He can help us are as innumerable as the sands of the sea or the stars of the sky. Think of it—when we ask for His help with a humble heart and a determination to obey, a whole universe of help opens to us!

(Harry Anderson, The Resurrected Jesus Christ. © 1992 Intellectual Reserve, Inc. All rights reserved.)