

Acknowledgments

The editors wish to express appreciation to all who have contributed to this work. It would not have been possible without you. A special thanks to Brigham Y. Card, coeditor of The Diaries of Charles Ora Card: The Canadian Years, 1886–1903. He not only helped establish the pattern for this work, but his published scholarship and insight have been invaluable. Jo Ann Sloan Rogers made available family transcriptions and provided photographs, which helped in interpretation. We would also like to thank David Whittaker, archivist at Brigham Young University's Harold B. Lee Library, for his inspiration and support as well as making all of the actual diaries available; Lavina Fielding Anderson, who has encouraged this project for years and has always been there when the editors had a question on the history of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints; and Darrin Smith, who has furnished some rare photographs of the temple under construction.

Thanks also to Janet Soper and Mary Fran Draisker at the Publication Assistance Center, College of Public Programs, Arizona State University, and to Kathryn L. Chase, Kathryn Jo Gille, and Devan Jensen of the Religious Studies Center, Brigham Young University. This publication would not have been possible without their work.

We are especially grateful to our wives and families, who share in all that we do.
