

IRAQ WAR IMAGES

A U.S. Army helicopter is shown flying an American flag during a flight over Mosul, Iraq. Courtesy of Steve Gundry.

This HMMWV—pictured near Camp Fallujah, Iraq, in July 2004—has an ERC (explosive resistant coating) armored door to better protect the occupants. Courtesy of DoD.

A U.S. military convoy entering Forward Operating Base Q-West after completing a mission in May 2008. Courtesy of Bernt Jenkins.

Soldiers from the 101st Airborne Division move from house to house conducting searches looking for weapons in Mosul, Iraq, on June 18, 2003. Courtesy of DoD.

Soldiers from an Air Assault Field Artillery unit prepare a cache of Iraqi explosives to be destroyed near Mosul in July 2003. Courtesy of DoD.

Johnathan Hayes and Ty Lamb prepare for a baptism in the 10th Mountain Division's Warrior Chapel font at Camp Liberty, Baghdad, on July 12, 2006. Camp firemen filled the font prior to the service. Courtesy of Jon Petty.

Jon Petty, Johnathan Hayes, and Ty Lamb share a missionary discussion in preparation for baptism in the Engineer Chapel at Camp Liberty, Baghdad, on July 6, 2006. Courtesy of Jon Petty.

